

NHLT Most Wanted:

Help us get these unwanted plants out of here!

What is an invasive plant?

“A nonnative plant which through its prolific reproductive capacity interferes with a native or commercially significant habitat.”

Mugwort
Artemisia vulgaris

Japanese Honeysuckle
Lonicera japonica

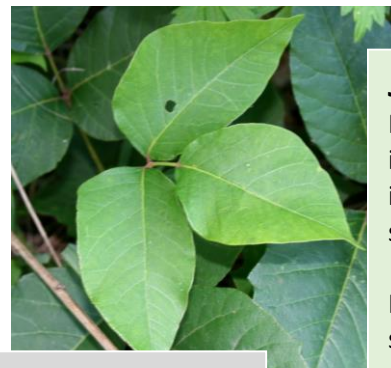

Oriental Bittersweet
Celastrus orbiculatus

Autumn Olive
Elaeagnus umbellata

Multiflora Rose
Rosa multiflora

Poison Ivy
Toxicodendron radicans

Just kidding!

Poison Ivy might be inconvenient, but it's not an invasive species!

It is native, readily spread by birds, and can thrive in both sun and shade.

Remember:

“Leaves of three, leave it be!”
